"Now, they went hold another thing,' Said Santa Claus, with pride, A twinkle came in mouse's eyes, But humbly he replied: "It's not polite to contradict,— Your pardon I implore,— But in the fallest stocking there I could put one thing more."

'Oh, ho!' laughed Santa, "silly mouse Don't I know how to pick?" By filling stoc: fugs all these years, I should have learned the knack."

And then he took the stocking down From where it hung so high, And said: "Now put in one thing more; I give you leave to try." The mousie chuckled to himself, And then he softly stole

Right in the stocking scrowded toe And gnawed a little hole!

"Now, it you please, good Santa Claus, I've put in one thing more; For you will own that little hole Was not in there before," How Santa Claus did laugh and laugh!
And then he gayly spoke;
"Well! you shall have a Christmas cheese
For that nice little joke!"

and One of Them Was an Idiot, He

There were two of them. One of them was an idiot. The other one wasn't.

This, by the way, is not by Victor Hugo. To return. They both met her for the irst time at musical party where she sang divincly that tender ballad, "Nevermore on the Jersey Shore," and then a charming French chanson about a Mr. Riley that kep shotel. By the time she had finished, it a hotel. By the time she had innshed, it was all over with both of them, and they sat and stared and worshipped in silence with their months wide open and did not know what ailed them. They soon found out, however, as one of them broke out with poetry and showed one of his songs to the other one; it ran thus:

"Slowly, sofily, sadly, Far in the heavens above, The wind is always singing, Singing of my love!"

The wind is singuing.—
Single of my love!"

It was called the "Song of the Wind," and the fellow who didn't write it suggested that the simple word "Wind" without any prefix would make a more appropriate tifle, and then they clinched.

Now Job's Turkey was in affluent circumstances compared to these two youths, and it struck one of them (the idiot) that it was hardly right or manly for him to press his suit on the aforesaid young lady when he had nothing to effer her but himself and the shadow of the poorhouse. He therefore gave up his easy life and went out West where he worked like a mule at mining and "cattle-punching," and at the end of two years, had, at the expense of his health, amassed a modest fortune, so econnou nome in search of the love of his youth. This is what he found.

This made the old man so furious that he burst a blood vessel and died, leaving his vast fortune to his daughter, so she and the young man were able to be married and lived very happily ever afterward.

resisting the advance upon Atlanta, once used into the nearthal will be shorbed, etcomposed to the following incident, which well illustrated the impression Sherman and made upon the minds of the Southern soldiery, at that time as a commander of resources and ready expedients. Johnston stood on Kenesaw Mountain watching one of the steam of t officer had been forced to make a detour of officer had been forced to make a detour of two days to get around the Union army. Scarcely had he finished spesking when a whistle was heard, and a moving train ap-peared in the disance, showing that Sher-man had already rebuilt the bridges and reopened his communications. Walking past a group of soldiers lounging in the shade, a few minutes later, the General shade, a few minutes later, the General overheard them discussing Sherman's chances of success. Said one of them: "We'll make it a Moscow campai, n and destroy his whole army." "How can you make it a Moscow campaign without any snow?" asked his less enthusiastic communications, destroy everything, and starve him out. We'll burn all the bridges." "Don't you know he carries duplicate bridges "the him." "Oh, hell!" exclaimed the other man, with a look of disgust; "you don't know old Tecumseh Sherman. He's got a duplicate tunnel too!"

A Farmer's Queer Idea.

Kansos City (Mo., Times.

That lightning killed his soil is the belief of a farmer in Newton, Ill. He writes:
"This summer, when my corn was two feet high, the lightning struck it, killing a patch about 100 square feet in extent. It seemed to have killed the ground, as neither weed nor spear of grass has grown on it since. The ground looks dead, and I believe it is. Occasionally these spots are met with all over the prairies. The people account for them as buffalo tramps, where buffaloes congregated in fly time, and tramped until they killed the soil, but from the above occurrence I account for them as having been struck by lightning." He Won His Case.

Let These Things be Considered.

Thou ands of men die every day who could be saved. Prejudice is mainly to blame for this loss of life. If it were believed that the sum of diesese may certainly be reduced by physic, much would be gained. And yet the proposition is very simple: if you take out saily more impurities tran is daily generated, you will soon be rid of impurities. Methodist clergyman, residing at Naples draws the following amusing, but apt comparison between Dr. C. McL ne's Vermifuge prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a ferret.

"A ferret when placed at the extrance of a rat hole, enters the aperture, travels along the passage, selzes upon the rat, exterminates his existence and draws the animal's defunct carcass to the light. And in like manner have I found Dr. C. Melane's Ferminage to operate upon worms, those dreadful and dangerous tormentors of children. This remedy, like the ferret, enters the aperture of the mouth, travels down the guillet, hunts round the stomach and lays hold of the worms, shakes the life out of the reptiles, sweeps clean their den, and carries their carcasses clear out of the system. This, at least, has been the effect of the Vermifuge upon my children."

It is a powerful, ac-tive, reliable and safe remedy that can be manipulated at will for severe or mild ef-fect. Thousands of the best Veterinarians and Horsemen of this country testify to its many wonderful cures and its great practical value. It is also the most economical remedy in use, as one tablespoonful of Caustic Balsam will produce more actual results than a whole bottle of any liniment or spavin cure mixture ever made. Price $1.50. Sold by druggists, or sent, charges paid, by LAWRENCE WILLIAMS & CO., Sole Importers and Proprietors, Cleve-land, Ohio. Der None genuine without 1 has our signature on the label.
